Dinner at the small port of Ammoudi - Oia

The organizing committee has arranged the dinner to take place at the picturesque little port of Ammoudi in Oia. We will depart from the Nomikos Workshop Centre following a road with breathtaking view to reach the traditional village, Oia. The village is built along the caldera rim. The white washed houses with arches and coloured doors and windows are built inside the cliffs resembling eagle nests. Delegates will enjoy the astonishing panoramic view of caldera, the volcano, Thirassia island and the rest of Santorini. Oia is famous for being the place of artists gathering, whose works of art have been inspired by the beauty of the landscape and are exhibited in small galleries in the village. Oia is also known for the magnificent purple sunsets. Participants can enjoy a short walk through the village, and then they either approach the little port by the stairs, either walking or riding a donkey, or get back to meeting point for a bus transfer to Ammoudi port where we will have dinner at a small traditional taverna.

The dinner: A combination of the nicest Santorini mezes, including the famous tomato pastries, grilled octopus, calamari, eggplant salad and more, followed by the freshest grilled fish or prawns - depending on what is available at the fish market that day. Don't miss this friendly gathering, and the opportunity to relax from the otherwise heavy program of our meeting. The live music will accompany us, consisting of two musicians playing the violin, and laouto. Some of the Greek folks might get in the spirit of showing us some nice folklore dancing, who knows...

At 23:30, buses will depart from the parking lot (where you were dropped off) to take you back to the Workshop centre. Delegates staying at Santorini Palace will be taken to their hotel, on the way back
